Accreditation experts fire back on Florida HEA lawsuit

Accreditation experts and professionals delivered a scathing assessment of Florida Governor Ron DeSantis' recent decision to sue the federal government over the regulation in the Higher Education Act (HEA) that to receive any type of federal funding higher education institutions must be accredited by an independent body. To read more, click here.

TikTok ban challenged by lawsuit from Texas university faculty

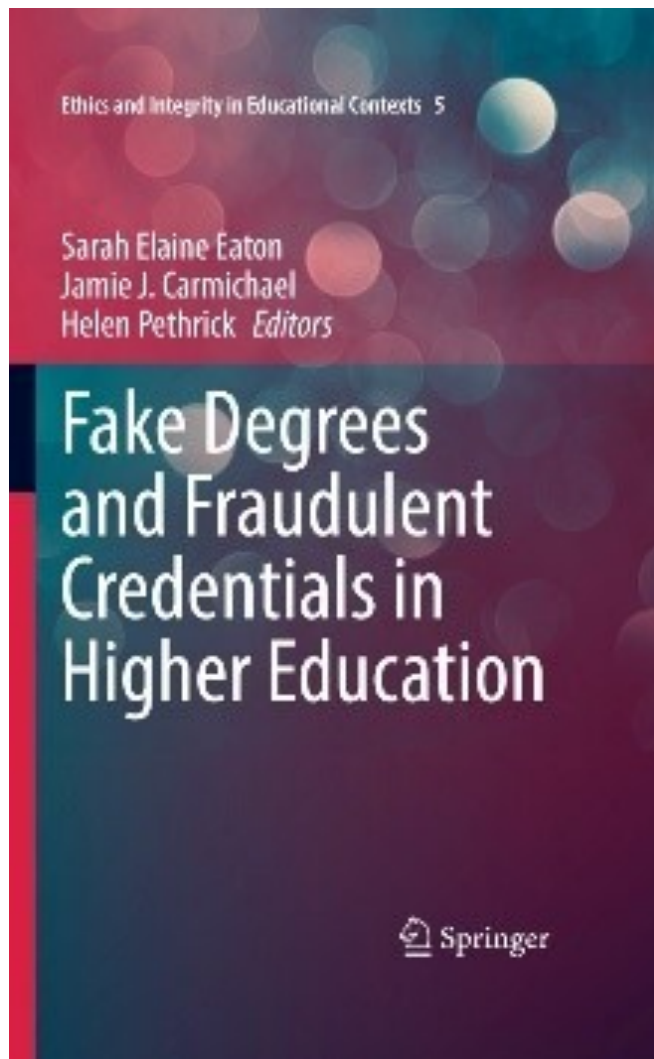

A coalition representing faculty at Texas public universities is suing Gov. Greg Abbott and other officials over the state's ban on TikTok on government-issued devices, effective next year. The ban, they say in the lawsuit, will prevent faculty members from using the platform to teach and conduct research in an academic capacity. To read more, click here.

Utica, The Last Refuge Imagine living in a refugee camp in Ethiopia for six years and finding out, at long last, that you will be resettled in a small city in upstate NY. You know no one there. Utica: The Last Refuge follows the Azeins, a refugee family of four from Sudan, over the course of 2.5 years as they transition from isolation to being part of a larger community. Unbeknownst to them, they have arrived in the US just as a new administration hostile to immigrants and refugees has taken over. For more information on viewing options, click here.

School Life follows a year in the lives of two inspirational teachers in the only primary-age boarding school in Ireland. Headfort School — with its 18th century buildings, secret doors, and magical woodlands — is a revered institution that sees students attend from all over the world, staff made up of former students, and educators who have stayed there for decades, lending the school their characteristic idiosyncrasies.
